Did You Know?

You can apply directly to the Parole Board of Canada for an Expungement Order.

Under the Expungement of Historically Unjust Convictions Act, the Parole Board of Canada is the only federal agency responsible for ordering or refusing to order expungement of convictions for eligible offences that would be lawful today. Persons convicted of an offence listed in the Schedule to the Expungement Act may apply, as well as authorized representatives in cases where the person is deceased.

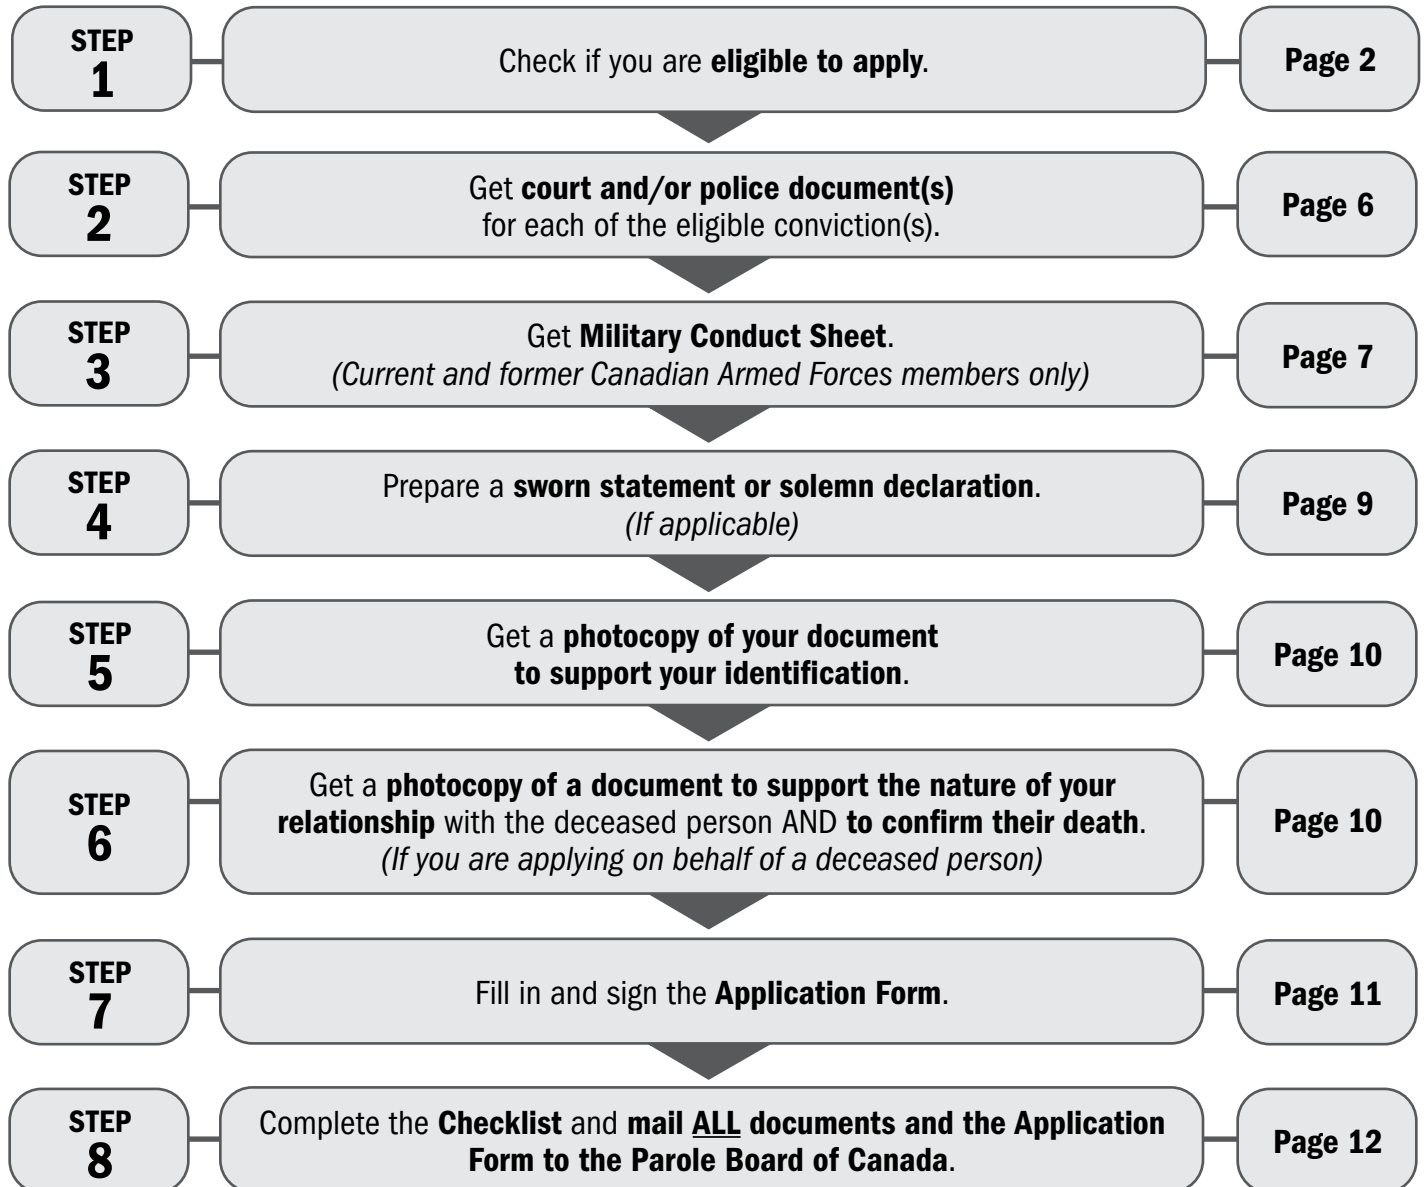

Read this application guide carefully before starting your application. It includes a fillable application form and step-by-step instructions for completing the application for an expungement order.

While there is no fee to apply for an expungement order, please note that costs may be incurred in terms of retrieving the documentation needed for your application.

IMPORTANT!

Keep a photocopy for yourself of all documents you submit to the Parole Board of Canada. Your application must include copies of official court and/or police documents and any other document required for your application, as well as the original signed application form and the original sworn statement or solemn declaration (if one is being provided).

Steps to apply for an expungement order

STEP 1

Refer to the Schedule to the Act for a complete list of offences. It can be found at:

<https://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/E-21.5/page-2.html#h-211856>

Keeping, being

STEP
1*Check if you are eligible to apply (Continued)Applying on behalf of a deceased individual

You MAY apply on behalf of a deceased person if you are the person's:

- spouse or common-law partner;
- family member (e.g. child; parent, etc.);
- executor or the administrator or liquidator of the estate;

- any other individual who, in the opinion of the Parole Board of Canada, is an appropriate representative of the person.

IMPORTANT!

If you are applying for an expungement on behalf of a deceased person, you must submit a photocopy of a document which supports your relationship with the person and a document that confirms that the person is deceased (see Step 6).

Get court and/or police documents

You must try to obtain the available court and/or police documents for each of the eligible conviction(s) for which you are applying. This documentation may serve to confirm the existence of the conviction(s) and demonstrate to the Parole Board of Canada that the relevant criteria (see Step 1) for ordering an expungement are met.

Contact the court(s) that heard the case(s) and/or the police service(s) having jurisdiction in the location where the arrest occurred and request a copy of the record(s).

→ If the court(s) and/or police service(s) do not have a record of the conviction(s), request confirmation of this in writing.

Review the court and/or police documents carefully to determine if these contain information regarding the relevant criteria for ordering an expungement.

→ If you were unable to obtain the court and/or police documents (e.g. the record was destroyed), or if the court and/or police documents do not clearly demonstrate that the relevant criteria for expungement are met, you must produce a sworn statement or solemn declaration (see Step 4).

IMPORTANT!

If you cannot recall the details of your conviction(s), you may wish to request a copy of your criminal record from the National Repository of Criminal Records maintained by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Should you have a criminal record within this repository, it may assist you in your search for records. Please consult the Annex at the end of this guide for information on how to obtain a fingerprint copy of your criminal record check.

STEP
3

STEP 4

Prepare a sworn statement or solemn declaration

A sworn statement or solemn declaration must be submitted with your application for expungement:

Your sworn statement or solemn declaration should contain information that addresses all relevant criteria for each conviction for which you are applying for an expungement order IF this information is not contained in the court and/or police documents and/or Military Conduct Sheet you are providing.

6

Get a photocopy of a document to support your relationship with the deceased person AND a proof of death

If you are applying for an expungement on behalf of a deceased person, you must also submit a copy of:

1. a document which supports your relationship with the person.

For example: if you are the deceased person's child, you could provide a copy of your long form birth certificate to establish your relationship.

2. the person's death certificate.

If you are unable to obtain a copy of a death certificate, another document may be provided, including a statement signed by a medical doctor, coroner or funeral director, or a Memorandum of Notification of Death issued by the Chief of National Defence Staff, among others.

Instructions for obtaining a fingerprint based copy of your criminal record

Only applies to living applicants

In order to facilitate the retrieval of your court and/or police documents for an expungement application, a fingerprint based criminal record check can be processed. Use this wording in your request: Privacy Act application type.

This type of request will determine if you have an existing criminal record within the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) National Repository of Criminal Records. Should a criminal record exist, a copy of your criminal record will be provided to you in the form of a report, containing information such as file numbers, the date and place of sentencing, charge, and court dispositions.

This information may assist you in determining the appropriate court(s) and/or police agency/agencies to contact and simplify the process of collecting other relevant documents needed for your expungement application.

A report containing a copy of the contents of your criminal record check or a letter indicating that no criminal record exists will be sent to your mailing address.

Please note that should you choose to share your entire criminal record report with the Parole Board of Canada, only the information relevant to the expungement application will be used for processing.

Here are the steps to obtain a fingerprint-based criminal record check from the RCMP's National Repository of Criminal Records, under: Privacy Act application type.
