INTRODUCTION

This guideline will help you determine the right award category for your nominee and assist you in the completion of the nomination.

THE AWARDS

Canada's Volunteer Awards (CVA) program is about recognizing the significant contributions that volunteers, not-for-profit organizations, social enterprises, and businesses across the country make to help people and their communities. The Awards are about people working in partnerships to find new solutions to strengthen our country.

CVA consists of one national award and 20 regional awards presented every year. For the Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award, one national recipient is selected. For Community Leader, Emerging Leader, Business Leader and Social Innovator, a recipient for each Award is selected from each of the following five regions:

- Atlantic (Newfoundland and Labrador, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick);
- Quebec;
- Ontario;
- Prairies (Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta,); and
- British Columbia and the North (Nunavut, Northwest Territories and Yukon).

Description of Nominations

Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award: recognizes dedicated individuals who have volunteered for at least 20 years and have inspired other volunteers, led volunteer groups or made other exceptional achievements through volunteering.

Community Leader: recognizes outstanding individual volunteers or groups of volunteers who have taken a lead role in developing solutions to social challenges in communities. This category does not include not-for-profit organizations or registered charities.

Emerging Leader: recognizes volunteers between the ages of 18 and 30 who have demonstrated leadership and helped to build stronger communities.

Business Leader: recognizes businesses that demonstrate social responsibility in their practices, including promoting and facilitating volunteerism locally, regionally, and nationally, as well as for-profit or not-for-profit social enterprises dedicated to creating social, cultural or environmental benefits for their communities.

Social Innovator: recognizes not-for-profit organizations, including not-for-profit social enterprises, that find and use innovative approaches that address social challenges in their communities.

NOMINATE A VOLUNTEER

Before submitting your nomination

<input type="checkbox"/> Determine the proper Award category	The Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award; Community Leader; Emerging Leader; Business Leader; or Social Innovator
<input type="checkbox"/> Confirm that the nominee is eligible	Depending on the Award, a nominee can be an individual or a group of volunteers, a not-for-profit organization or a business. Political and public advocacy work is not eligible. Nominees must meet the following criteria: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Individuals must be Canadian citizens, permanent residents or protected persons as described in the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act. • Individuals must be between the ages of 18 and 30 for the Emerging Leader category and 18 years of age and over for all other categories. • Not-for-profit organizations, social enterprises and businesses must be registered in Canada.
<input type="checkbox"/> Get the nominee's consent	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Consent from the nominee is required to begin the nomination process. • There can be only one nomination for each nominated individual, group, business, not-for-profit organization, or social enterprise. If several people want to nominate the same nominee, they should work together to submit a single nomination, which could include letters of support. If more than one nomination for the same nominee is received, all nominators will be contacted to determine which nomination will be assessed.

Submitting your nomination

<input type="checkbox"/> Get a nomination form	To nominate someone online, visit Canada.ca/volunteer-awards. To submit a paper nomination, download and print the form for the appropriate award category from the website above. Social Innovator: Describe innovative approaches used by the nominated organization to address social challenges in their communities.

Business Leader: Describe how the nominee has shown leadership in addressing community issues. Give details about the time, expertise and resources the nominated business has dedicated to improving its community.

IMPACT (15 Points)

All categories: Impact refers to the depth of the nominee's contribution. Has the nominee identified and addressed a priority in their community? Describe how their contributions have made a lasting difference in the community. Indicate how the nominee has made their work sustainable (in other words, how will the benefits of the nominee's contributions continue when the nominee is no longer involved).

REACH (15 Points)

All categories: Describe who benefited from the nominee's contributions (i.e. individuals and/or specific groups). Indicate how many people were affected and how they were affected. Have the contributions expanded to benefit other people or groups? Have they expanded beyond the nominee's community, locally or nationally?

ENGAGEMENT (5 Points)

Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award, Community Leader and Emerging Leader: Describe how the nominee's contributions sparked teamwork to address social challenges. Describe how the nominee engaged others. Did the nominee use outside resources and get other partners involved? If so, how?

Social Innovator: Describe how the nominated not-for-profit organization or social enterprise engaged others in a collective effort and made use of outside resources to address social challenges. Did the nominee mobilize other not-for-profit organizations, social enterprises, businesses and/or government organizations? If so, how?

Business Leader: Did the nominated business use outside resources and mobilize others to address social challenges? Did the business develop programs or take measures to help employees volunteer in, or donate to, their community? If so, how?

CHALLENGES (5 Points)

All categories: Describe the challenges (personal, social or other) that the nominee has overcome to make a contribution in their community.

INSPIRATION (5 Points)

Emerging Leader, Community Leader and the Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award: Describe how the nominee became a role model in their community or in their organization. How did the nominee share their experience and knowledge and who did they share it with?

Social Innovator: Describe how the nominated organization became a role model in the community for other not-for-profit organizations or social enterprises. Describe how the nominee shared their experience and expertise with other organizations.

Business Leader: Has the nominated business been a role model in the community in terms of their practices? Describe how the nominee has mentored others and influenced other organizations.

RECOGNITION OF AWARD RECIPIENTS

Recipients of Canada's Volunteer Awards will be formally recognized at a national ceremony to highlight and celebrate their achievements. Recipients may also be asked to participate in an exemplary practices session to share experiences and lessons learned from their work. The CVA program will cover eligible costs related to the recipients' attendance at the ceremony.

All Award recipients will receive a lapel pin and a certificate signed by the Prime Minister. Recipients will be asked to identify an eligible not-for-profit organization to receive a grant of $5,000 for the regional awards and $10,000 for the national award.

To promote their outstanding achievements, brief biographies and photos of Award recipients may be shared with their members of Parliament, the public, and the media. Recipients may also be interviewed or photographed.

PRIVACY NOTICE

The information you provide on the nomination form is collected under the authority of the Department of Employment and Social Development Act (DESDA) and the Privacy Act to determine the nominee's eligibility for Canada's Volunteer Awards.

The information contained within your nomination form will be shared with regional reviewers, National Advisory Committee members and the Minister of Employment and Social Development for the purposes of evaluating nominations and selecting award recipients. The information will be used to brief the Minister's Office and may be shared with ESDC's Public Affairs and Stakeholder Relations Branch for internal and external communications purposes. Limited information may be shared with the nominee's Member of Parliament, the Minister of Employment and Social Development Canada, the public and the media to celebrate accomplishments and to promote program awareness.

The information contained within the nomination form provided may also be used or disclosed for policy analysis, research and/or program evaluation purposes. If selected among top-ranked nominees, your personal information may be shared to conduct a criminal record or background checks.

Participation is voluntary. However, failure to complete this form and/or provide the personal information requested may result in the nomination not being considered for the Canada's Volunteer Awards.

Your personal information is administered in accordance with the DESDA, Privacy Act and other applicable laws. You have the right to the protection of, access to, and correction of your personal information which is described in Personal Information Bank ESDC PPU 650. Instructions for obtaining this information are outlined in the government publication entitled Info Source, which is available at the following website address:

<https://www.canada.ca/en/employment-social-development/corporate/transparency/access-information/reports/infosource.html>.

Info Source may also be accessed online at any Service Canada Centre. You have the right to file a complaint with the Privacy Commissioner of Canada regarding the institution's handling of your personal information at: https://www.priv.gc.ca/faqs/index_e.asp#q005.

Consent

You and your nominee must consent to the Canada's Volunteer Award program collecting, sharing, and disclosing all information related to the nomination with regional reviewers, National Advisory Committee members and the Minister of Employment and Social Development. The nomination form provides details about this consent which you must acknowledge and initial.

RESOURCES AND SUPPORT

For additional information or assistance in completing the nomination, consult the Guidelines for Letters of Support (Annex A), Frequently Asked Questions (Annex B), and the Glossary (Annex C).

If you have further questions, please contact Canada's Volunteer Awards at 1-877-825-0434 or info-cva-pbc@hrsdc-rhdcc.gc.ca.

Annex A: Guidelines for Letters of Support

Letters of support should use specific and concrete examples and stories to illustrate how your nominee meets one or more of the six assessment criteria in the respective award category. Using a letter of support to explicitly address the criteria may increase the scores. You only have two pages, or approximately 1,000 words, for each letter, up to a maximum of three letters, so it is best to keep them clear and concise.

Letters may come from anyone with direct knowledge of the nominee's contributions. If you provide more than one letter of support, take the opportunity to provide various examples from a range of views and perspectives. In other words, ensure that the authors of the letters of support are not telling the same story several times.

Letters should be addressed to Canada's Volunteer Awards. Make sure the author of each letter limits the amount of personal information they share only their name and email or mailing address. Referees should also include their role and relationship to the nominee, for example: how did the author become familiar with the nominee's activities, and how long have they known them?

A letter of support may be written by the nominee's superior at the not-for-profit organization or business where they volunteer. It may come from someone who has benefitted directly from their achievements (an individual, a not-for-profit organization or a business) or from an elected representative. There are many possible sources, but the letter should be written by someone who can attest to the valuable leadership the nominee has provided through their community contributions.

Annex B: Frequently Asked Questions

Why have these Awards been created?

Canada's Volunteer Awards have been created to recognize those who make a difference by addressing social challenges in communities across the country. The Awards also highlight exemplary practices in community leadership and encourage partnerships among community members and various stakeholders. By doing so, the Awards inspire Canadians from all walks of life to find new ways of building stronger communities.

What specific award categories are there?

There are five different award categories: the Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award, Community Leader, Emerging Leader, Business Leader and Social Innovator.

How many awards are there?

Canada's Volunteer Awards consist of 21 awards. There is one national award category and four regional award categories.

What is the national award?

The Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award is the only national award. One national recipient is selected for this category.

What are the regional awards?

Community Leader, Emerging Leader, Business Leader and Social Innovator are regional awards. One recipient from the five regions described below is chosen for each of these awards.

What are the five regions related to the regional awards?

One recipient for each regional award will be selected from each of the following five regions: Atlantic (Newfoundland and Labrador, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick), Quebec, Ontario, Prairies (Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta) and British Columbia and the North (Nunavut, the Northwest Territories and Yukon).

What awards are individuals eligible for?

Individuals are eligible for the Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award, the Community Leader and Emerging Leader awards.

What awards are businesses eligible for?

Businesses are eligible for the Business Leader.

What awards are not-for-profit organizations eligible for?

Not-for-profit organizations are eligible for the Social Innovator award.

What awards are social enterprises eligible for?

A for-profit or not-for-profit social enterprise is eligible for the Business Leader award or for the Social Innovator award if they are a not-for-profit.

Are there any awards for which I could nominate a group of people?

Just one: the Community Leader award.

Do I have to know the person I nominate?

Yes, you must be directly aware of the contributions made by the individual or group, business, or not-for-profit organization you wish to nominate. You must know them well enough to be able to obtain their consent to be nominated and to be able to complete a thorough nomination.

Do I need to get consent from the nominee?

You must get consent from the nominee confirming that they are a Canadian citizen, permanent resident or protected person within the meaning of the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, and at least 18 years of age.

Can I nominate someone who has been nominated in the past?

Yes, you may nominate previous nominees who have not received a Canada's Volunteer Award. However, if you do, you must submit a new nomination package.

Can I submit a nomination package for someone who has already been nominated by someone else?

If you are aware that someone else has already nominated the individual, not-for-profit organization or business that you intend to nominate, it is strongly recommended that you consider writing a letter of support to strengthen the nomination package instead of preparing a new one. Please note that if more than one nomination is received for the same person, nominators will be contacted to determine which nomination will be assessed while the other is discarded.

Can I nominate myself?

Yes, you can nominate yourself, however we encourage you to find a nominator other than yourself.

Can I nominate a member of my family?

Yes, you can nominate a member of your family.

Can I nominate someone who has passed away?

No, posthumous nominations are ineligible. Although posthumous nominations are not accepted, nominees who pass away in the months between the receipt of their nomination and the decision-making process are eligible to receive an award.

Can I nominate someone for their political or public advocacy volunteer work?

Political and public advocacy work is not eligible and will not be considered.

What's the CVA online nomination system?

It is a web-based system that allows nominations with letters of support to be submitted electronically.

Which nomination process should I follow—paper-based or online?

Nominators are encouraged to use the online system, which can be accessed through Canada.ca/volunteer-awards. It is a straightforward, fast, and secure way to submit your nomination. The online system permits you to save your drafts and edit them for submission when you are ready. Paper submissions are also accepted and forms are available as PDF downloads on Canada.ca/volunteer-awards or by contacting Canada's Volunteer Awards at 1-877-825-0434 or by email at info-cva-pbc@hrsdc-rhdcc.gc.ca.

Where can I find nomination forms?

Visit the website "Submit a nomination" for Canada's Volunteer Awards and click on the "" button to access the nomination forms for the award for which you will be making a nomination.

How do I know which award category to choose?

The award categories have been created to cover the full range of community contributors:

The Thérèse Casgrain Lifelong Achievement Award recognizes dedicated individuals who have volunteered for at least 20 years and have inspired other volunteers, led volunteer groups or made other exceptional achievements through volunteering.

The Community Leader Award recognizes outstanding individual volunteers or groups of volunteers who have taken a lead role in developing solutions to social challenges in communities. This category does not include not-for-profit organizations or registered charities.

The Emerging Leader Award recognizes volunteers between the ages of 18 and 30 who have demonstrated leadership and helped to build stronger communities.

The Business Leader Award recognizes businesses that demonstrate social responsibility in their practices, including promoting and facilitating volunteerism locally, regionally, and nationally, as well as for profit and not-for-profit social enterprises dedicated to creating social, cultural or environmental benefits for their communities.

The Social Innovator Award recognizes not-for-profit organizations, including not-for-profit social enterprises, that find and use innovative approaches that address social challenges in their communities.

If you believe the nominee could be considered for more than one award, choose the award category that most closely reflects the nominee's contributions. If you are not certain which award category to choose, please contact Canada's Volunteer Awards for guidance (1-877-825-0434 or info-cva-pbc@hrsdc-rhdcc.gc.ca).

How should I select the region for the nomination?

You should identify the region in which the nominee carried out the majority of their volunteer work.

Why are there six criteria?

The six criteria include role, impact, reach, engagement, challenges and inspiration. These criteria have been selected as they are best able to communicate the nominee's contribution fully, clearly and concisely. Your nomination form will define each criterion.

Can I submit a handwritten nomination form?

Yes, you can submit a handwritten nomination form.

How many letters of support should I include with the nomination form?

Include at least one (1) letter of support, but you may submit up to a maximum of three (3) letters. Letters should not exceed two (2) pages each or 1,000 words and should state that it is written for a Canada's Volunteer Awards nomination. Any letters beyond the first three received will not be retained for the nomination. If sending the letter(s) of support by mail or email, the nominator should clearly identify the name of the nominee and the Award category.

Whom should I ask to provide a letter of support?

Letters of support come from someone who has benefitted directly from the nominee's volunteer contribution, someone who worked with the nominee or an elected representative who can attest to the valuable leadership the nominee has provided in their community. Referees should clearly identify their role and relationship to the nominee, for example: how did the author become familiar with the nominee's activities, and how long have they known them?

How will the information I provide be used?

The information will be used to determine the nominee's eligibility for Canada's Volunteer Awards. The information will also be shared with regional reviewers, National Advisory Committee members and the Minister of Families, Children and Social Development for the purposes of evaluating nominations and selecting award recipients.

Limited information may be shared with the nominee's Member of Parliament, the Office of the Prime Minister, the public, and the media to celebrate the Award recipients. The information provided may also be used or disclosed for policy analysis, research and/or program evaluation purposes.

If you refer to a third-party individual in the description of the nominee's community contributions and letters of support, please do not include personal information such as names or email addresses by which these third parties can be identified.

How will nominations be assessed?

Nominations will undergo a three-stage review process involving a different group of assessors at each stage.

- First, Canada's Volunteer Awards officials review each nomination form to ensure it meets the eligibility criteria.
- Second, regional reviewers who are volunteer representatives from the five (5) regions assess nominations based on the set of established assessment criteria set out in this document and develop a list of top-ranked nominations for assessment by the National Advisory Committee.
 - Regional reviewers include individual volunteers and representatives of not-for-profit organizations and businesses that use innovative approaches through volunteerism to address social challenges.
- Third, National Advisory Committee members representing the voluntary, private and not-for-profit sectors, and various regions of the country, evaluate the top-ranked nominations and identify the Award recipients on behalf of the Minister of Families, Children and Social Development.

On what basis will the nomination forms be assessed?

Regional reviewers will give each nomination a score based on the written responses to the six (6) criteria. The maximum total score for any nomination is 50 points. Regional reviewers can award up to five (5) points for role, engagement, challenges and inspiration, and up to fifteen (15) points for impact and reach. Check your nomination form for precise descriptions of each criterion.

National Advisory Committee members assess the top-ranked nominations submitted by the regional reviewers, using the same criteria, and determine Award recipients for each category.

What other conditions must nominees be aware of?

If you are selected as a top-ranked nominee, you may undergo a criminal record check, or provide valid proof that you do not have a criminal conviction for which a pardon has not been received.

What if I want to nominate a national organization for a regional award even though it has made contributions in more than one region? Should I prepare nominations for more than one region or should I choose just one?

Please choose one region. Ideally, select the region in which your nominee's contributions are most evident. If in doubt, choose the region in which the national organization has its head office.

What should I do if I want to nominate someone who has recently turned 18 years old and a portion of their volunteer contribution was made before they turned 18?

As long as the person is 18 years at the time of the submission of the nomination, they are eligible for the Canada's Volunteer Awards.

For the Emerging Leader award, the nominee must be between the ages of 18 and 30 years at the time the nomination is submitted. The nominee will be asked for proof of age at the nomination assessment stage.

What should I do if I have a question that goes beyond the range of the information contained in the Guidelines for Nominators?

Please contact Canada's Volunteer Awards at 1-877-825-0434 or email info-cva-pbc@hrsdc-rhdcc.gc.ca.

Annex C: Glossary

Business: a for-profit enterprise incorporated under federal or provincial law.

Canada's Volunteer Awards Unit: officials of Employment and Social Development Canada who are responsible for administering the Canada's Volunteer Awards.

Canadian citizen: a person who is Canadian by birth, who has applied for Canadian citizenship through Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada and subsequently received a citizenship certificate, who was a British subject ordinarily resident in Canada on January 1, 1947 (April 1, 1949, in the case of Newfoundland and Labrador), or who was born outside of Canada after April 2009 but had at least one parent born in Canada.¹

Challenges: personal and/or external hurdles overcome to accomplish the objective of the volunteer activity. Personal challenges can include physical abilities, mental abilities and life circumstances. External challenges can include, among other things, rural or remote location or lack of access to resources (programs and services).

Charitable organization²:

- is established as a corporation, a trust, or under a constitution
- has exclusively charitable purposes
- primarily carries on its own charitable activities, but may also gift funds to other qualified donors, (for example, registered charities)
- more than 50% of its governing officials must be at arm's length with each other
- generally receives its funding from a variety of arm's length donors
- its income cannot be used for the personal benefit of any of its members, shareholders, or governing officials.

Community organization: a group that serves the public and operates in a single town or city.

Co-operative³: A co-operative is a legally incorporated corporation that is owned by an association of persons seeking to satisfy common needs such as access to products or services, sale of their products or services, or employment.

Corporate social responsibility⁴: the voluntary activities undertaken by a company to operate in an economic, social and environmentally sustainable manner.

Exemplary practices: methods or techniques that have consistently shown results superior to those achieved by other means, and that are used as benchmarks. Exemplary practices are generally accepted, informally standardized techniques, methods or processes that have proven themselves over time to accomplish given tasks and that can be used by multiple organizations.

Leader and Leadership: an individual that has the capacity to influence people and has a direct impact on changing lives for the better. Leadership is the act of providing direction and motivating others to work alongside them to implement plans and solutions to problems and priorities. Leadership is “by example”—a role model who is acknowledged by the community.

Letter of support: a document that highlights the contribution of a nominee, written by someone who has direct knowledge of the nominee's contribution.

Lifelong achievement: having volunteered and made a difference in a community or organization over a period of at least 20 years. The period of volunteerism can be constant or intermittent over a longer period. The volunteer work can be focused on one or several activities or numerous causes within an organization or the community as a whole.

National Advisory Committee: National Advisory Committee members representing the voluntary, private and not-for-profit sectors, and various regions of the country, that evaluates the top-ranked nominations and identifies the Award recipients on behalf of the Minister of Families, Children and Social Development.

Nomination Form: a document used to record all the information necessary to nominate an individual, business, social enterprise or not-for-profit organization for Canada's Volunteer Awards.

Nominator: a person who is nominating an individual, business, social enterprise or not-for-profit organization for Canada's Volunteer Awards.

Nominee: a volunteer, not-for-profit organization, social enterprise or business that is being nominated for a Canada's Volunteer Award to acknowledge their significant community contributions.

Not-for-profit organization (NFPs): for the purposes of the administration of the Canada's Volunteer Awards, NFPs are considered entities incorporated under either federal or provincial not-for-profit legislation, or registered charities that do not have transferable ownership interests, and are organized and operate exclusively on a not-for-profit basis for a variety of social, educational, professional and charitable purposes. NFPs can be associations, or clubs that are organized and operated exclusively for social welfare, civic improvement, pleasure, recreation, or any other purpose except profit⁵.

⁵ <https://www.canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/charities-giving/giving-charity-information-donors/about->

Permanent resident: someone who has acquired permanent resident status by immigrating to Canada but is not yet a Canadian citizen

Regional reviewer: a person who assesses award nominees according to six (6) criteria. Regional reviewers' assessments determine the top-ranked nominees from each of categories and the five (5) regions which are then passed on to the National Advisory Committee for further evaluation. Regional reviewers may include individual volunteer representatives of not-for-profit organizations, social enterprises and businesses.

Registered charity: refers to a charitable organization, public foundation or private foundation registered with the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA). It must be established and reside in Canada and devote its resources to charitable activities. It must also meet a public benefit test, whereby its activities and purposes provide tangible benefit to the public as a whole, or a significant section of it (not a restricted group or one where members share a private connection, such as social clubs or professional associations with specific membership). A registered charity is issued a Registration Number once the Canada Revenue Agency has approved its application for registration. It is then exempt from paying income tax, and it can issue tax receipts for donations received.

Social enterprise⁶: a business, whether not-for-profit or for-profit, that pursues a social, cultural or environmental mission through the sale of goods and services, with the majority of net profits directed back to its mission, and with limited distribution to shareholders and owners.

Social innovation: the process of finding and developing new ideas (an initiative, product, service, process, program or model) that simultaneously meet social needs (more effectively than alternatives) and create new social relationships or collaborations. Socially innovative ideas are good for society and enhance society's capacity to act.

Sustainability: the capacity to endure. This definition can refer to economic, social, environmental and cultural maintenance, activities that receive strong support from the community or community needs identified as having a long duration.

Top-ranked nominees: nominations that have been assessed by regional reviewers and moved ahead to the National Advisory Committee for further evaluation.

Volunteer⁷: person who performed a service without pay. This includes any unpaid help provided to schools, religious organizations, sports or community associations.
