

Sample attestation of genuineness for Labour Market Impact Assessment

Instructions:

To demonstrate active engagement of the business and its ability to fulfill terms of the job offer to the temporary foreign workers (TFW), employers have the option to submit an attestation from a lawyer, a Chartered Professional Accountant (CPA) or an official (account manager, branch manager or above who has delegated signing authority) from a financial institution that's either federally or provincially regulated.

The attestation should generally include the following:

- the official/corporate letterhead of the law firm or financial institution, or, if applicable, the accounting firm
- the date and the signature of the individual with appropriate qualification (lawyer or CPA) or delegated signing authority (official in a financial institution)
- the signee's contact information, such as phone number, email address, job title, professional designation (if applicable), membership ID (if applicable)
- clear and specific attestation on whether the employer is operating a legal business that provides a good or service in Canada, and/or whether the employer has the financial ability to meet the TFW Program requirements
