Audit of Canada Pension Plan Disability Program
Fall 2015 Report of the Auditor General of Canada

General Comment

Employment and Social Development Canada is committed to ensuring the Canada Pension Plan Disability (CPPD) program continues to be responsive to the needs of Canadians. To accomplish this, CPPD program renewal is included in the Canada Pension Plan Service Improvement Strategy (CPP SIS) being developed as part of a broader agenda to modernize the delivery of its employment and pensions benefit programs. The CPP SIS is a comprehensive, phased plan, being developed with partners that will transform program delivery to ensure it is adaptable, innovative and cost-effective.

The CPP SIS will begin with a renewal of the CPPD program, using as fundamental principles: quality and consistency of decisions, efficiency, and service excellence for Canadians. To achieve successful renewal of the CPPD program, the Department will launch an integrated project plan with specific initiatives phased over the short-, medium- and long-term with clear governance mechanisms. Short-term foundational improvements to the CPPD program will enable longer term transformation projects intended to produce a well-functioning, high quality, e-accessible program that meets the needs of Canadians. By March 2018, the Department will identify, develop and begin to implement improvements to the CPPD program through consultations with partners and in-depth assessment of options, tools, and business processes.

The long-term approach of the CPP SIS is one of continuous improvement and maximizing the use of technology, with an emphasis on electronic services and automation to simplify processes and increase efficiency. As the Department pursues its modernization agenda, it will incorporate the recommendations of the Auditor General's report to ensure that the objectives of the Government and the expectations of Canadians are achieved.

Paragraph 6.34: Employment and Social Development Canada should regularly seek feedback from applicants and beneficiaries to identify ways to improve access to the Canada Pension Plan Disability program.	Agreed. Employment and Social Development Canada recognizes the importance of regularly consulting with applicants and beneficiaries to identify ways to improve the Canada Pension Plan Disability (CPPD) program. The client experience is a fundamental consideration for all program improvements, and the Department is committed to ensuring that Canadians are able to access the program in an easy, secure, timely and efficient manner. The Department established the CPPD Client Roundtable in 2001. Since its creation, the roundtable has served as a forum for discussion with individuals from the community who have direct experience with the program. Building on our experiences with the roundtable, the Department will reassess the best manner to regularly engage applicants and beneficiaries to identify ways to improve access to the program. The Department will complete this reassessment by March 2016	ISSDB and PPSB will collect information regarding stakeholder engagement by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Assessing and revitalizing the CPPD Client Roundtable to determine if it can be leveraged as a means of gathering applicant and beneficiary feedback with the purpose of informing policy and program development; • Establishing an internal working group to identify and explore possible ways that information can be collected, collated and analyzed to develop measures for improving program access; • Conducting a literature review of comparable provincial, federal and international programs with a focus on how applicant and beneficiary feedback on program access issues is gathered 	March 2016
