Overview

Application guide

The application guide is a tool that provides assistance with the information you must provide in the portal.

Note: Information about the Basis of Claim Form and the refugee determination process can be found at the Immigration and Refugee Board.

Read the application guide thoroughly and then complete your refugee claim in the portal.

Before you apply

Who is eligible to have a claim for refugee protection referred to the Immigration and Refugee Board?

Canada offers refugee protection to some people in Canada who fear persecution or who would be in danger if they had to return to their home country.

If you feel you could face one of these risks if you go back to your home country or the country where you normally live, you may be able to seek protection in Canada as a refugee.

Officers receiving your refugee claim will decide whether it is eligible for referral to the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB), an independent administrative tribunal that makes decisions on immigration and refugee matters. The Refugee Protection Division at the IRB decides who is a Convention refugee or a person in need of protection.

Your refugee claim may not be eligible for referral to the IRB if:

- You have been recognized as a Convention refugee by another country to which you can return;
- You have already been granted protected person status in Canada;
- You arrived via the Canada-United States land border;
- You are not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations;
- You have been convicted of a serious crime;
- You made a previous refugee claim that was found to be ineligible for referral to the IRB;
 - You made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB; or
 - You abandoned or withdrew a previous refugee claim.

People who are subject to a removal order cannot make a refugee claim.

Definitions

You may find the following definitions useful:

Convention refugee

Convention refugees are people who are outside their home country or the country where they normally live, and who are not able to return because of a well-founded fear of persecution based on:

- race;
- religion;
- political opinion;
- nationality; or
- membership in a particular social group.

Person in need of protection

A person in need of protection is a person in Canada whose removal to their home country or country where they normally live would subject them personally to:

- a danger of torture;
 - a risk to their life; or
 - a risk of cruel and unusual treatment or punishment.

When must I apply?

You can apply for refugee protection from within Canada at any time, as long as you are not subject to a removal order. To apply, submit a refugee claim online through the IRCC Portal.

If someone is helping you make your claim, they are a representative. To be someone's representative, they must provide the a form to show they have your permission to handle your claim for you. Family Information

Family member definitions

Your family members include your spouse or common-law partner, your dependent children and any children that are their dependent children.

Spouse

Refers to either of the two persons (opposite or same gender) in a marriage legally recognized in the country in which it took place, as well as in Canada.

Proxy, telephone, fax, internet and similar forms of marriage where one or both parties were not physically present are not considered as valid spousal relationships under the Regulations. For more information, consult our policy on the legality of a marriage.

Common-law partner

Refers to a person who is living in a conjugal relationship with another person (opposite or same gender), and has done so continuously for a period of at least one year. A conjugal relationship exists when there is a significant degree of commitment between two people.

This can be shown with evidence that the couple share the same home, support each other financially and emotionally, have children together, or present themselves in public as a couple.

Common-law partners who have been in a conjugal relationship for at least one year but are unable to live together or appear in public together because of legal restrictions in their home country or who have been separated for reasons beyond their control (for example, civil war or armed conflict) may still qualify and should be included on the application.

Dependent children

We assess your child's eligibility as a dependant based on how old they were at a specific point in time, called the lock-in date. This is usually the date we received your application. To see if your child qualifies as a dependant, we consider the age of your child on the lock-in date, even though your child's age may change during processing.

Your child or the child of your spouse or common-law partner can be considered a dependent child if that child meets the requirements below on the lock-in date:

- They're under 22 years old, and
- They don't have a spouse or common-law partner

Children 22 years old or older qualify as dependants if they meet both of these requirements:

- They have depended on their parents for financial support since before the age of 22, and
- They are unable to financially support themselves because of a mental or physical condition

With the exception of age, dependants must continue to meet these requirements until we finish processing your application.

Not sure if your child is a dependant? Check if your child qualifies by answering a few questions.

If your child's age was locked in on or before October 23, 2017, a previous definition of dependent children may apply.

Dependent child of a dependent child

Refers to children of dependent children of the applicant and those of the spouse or common-law partner, if applicable.

Note: For applicants who started an immigration process before August 1st, 2014, consult the page Definition of Dependent Children Before August 1st, 2014

Translation of documents

If your documents are not in either English or French, you must have them translated into the official language (English or French) that you have chosen for your proceeding. The translations and a translator’s declaration must be provided, along with copies of the documents. The translator’s declaration must include:

- the translator’s name;
- the language translated; and
- a statement signed by the translator that the translation is accurate.

If you do not provide your documents in either English or French, they cannot be used at the IRB proceeding unless the Member (the person who hears the case and makes the decision) agrees.

Click "Save and continue" when complete.

The text displayed will differ depending on whether you are applying for yourself, or an authorized representative is applying on your behalf.

Read the consent and declaration before electronically signing your name in the text box. If you are an authorized representative applying on behalf of a claimant, you must electronically sign your name, not the claimant's name. Do not use initials.

Complete your claim

Click "Submit Application."

Note: Once you click this, you cannot modify or add information.

After you apply online

What happens after you submit your application

You'll get a confirmation email from us soon.

Make sure to check the junk mail folder of the email address you gave us on your application. Some spam filters may block automated emails.

You should return to your “Account Home” page to save and print a copy of your Client Application Summary, and for updates on the status of your application. This document contains all the details you submitted in your claim and confirms your claim has been submitted. You can find this document for each claim you submitted by clicking “Check full application status” next to each claim on your home page.

We'll confirm there are no technical problems with your application before entering it in our system. After we confirm your application, we'll add the information you provided to our system. Once this is done, you'll find application numbers in your list of claims.

The portal will provide the status of your application up until the point a decision on eligibility is made. You will see status updates on the following:

- Medical results
- Additional documents (requested by IRCC)
- Interview
- Biometrics
- Background check
- Referral decision

When these statuses are updated and documents uploaded by IRCC into the portal, you will receive an email telling you that a change has been made to your account. Go to the “Messages about your application” section to view your messages from IRCC.

Note: It can take up to 7 days to add application numbers. If you don't see one after 7 days, contact us through our web form to report the problem. You'll need to know the reference number listed in your dashboard when you contact us.
