Appendix C
Medical Instructions

Everyone included in your application, whether accompanying you or not, must undergo a medical examination with a physician on the list of designated doctors. If you are a divorced or separated parent, a minor child of whom you have joint or sole custody is considered a dependent child, even if he or she usually lives with the other parent and is not accompanying you to Canada.

This office will forward medical instructions as soon as we receive your completed Application for Permanent Residence in Canada form and have reviewed your application. You will be responsible for the costs of the medical examination for all your family members. At the time of medical examination, you and all family members will be required to present individual passports as evidence of identity. If each of your family members does not already have an individual passport, you should apply to obtain them now.

The permanent resident visa usually has the same validity period as the medical results, that is, 12 months from the date of the first examination or test.
