

Calling Indigenous talent!

Make your career move to the Government of Canada

Meet Indigenous professionals who joined Canada's public service and are here to stay:

Amy Amos,
Gwich'in
First Nation

Position

Director of Arctic Operations,
Fisheries and Oceans Canada,
Inuvik

What excites me about my job

"I have the opportunity to apply a 'for the North, by the North' approach to managing resources in the Arctic."

Previous job

Executive Director, Gwich'in
Renewable Resources Board

Education

University degree,
Bachelor of Science

Curtis Kayseass,
Fishing Lake
First Nation

Position

Program Delivery Officer,
Environment and Climate Change Canada, Saskatoon

What excites me about my job

"I really like helping my people, so working in the public service was always one of my aims."

Previous job

Manager, Indigenous
Call Centre

Education

High school diploma

Michelle Franks-Fortin,
non-status
Mohawk

Position

Technical Advisor and Program
Coordinator, Shared Services
Canada, Ottawa

What excites me about my job

"Right now our voices matter and micro-aggressions will be dealt with. There's never been a better time to be an Indigenous public servant."

Previous job

Telecom Support Analyst,
information technology sector

Education

College diploma,
Information technology

Canada.ca/indigenous-recruitment-expertise

- Find Government of Canada jobs
- Read more stories from Indigenous public servants

Government of Canada

Gouvernement
du Canada

Canada