

How the government buys what you sell

Presented by Procurement Assistance Canada

Opportunities for smaller and diverse businesses

- Government of Canada is one of the largest buyers of goods and services in Canada
- Buys a wide range of goods and services each year, with contract values ranging from hundreds to billions of dollars
- On average, smaller businesses in Canada win the majority of the total value of contracts awarded each year

Contracting with the Government of Canada

- Public Services and Procurement Canada (PSPC) is the main procurement arm of the federal government
- It is important that all procurement activities be conducted in an open, fair and transparent manner, and that all suppliers have an equal chance at doing business with us
- Federal laws and regulations as well as Treasury Board of Canada policies guide the Government of Canada's procurement process

Becoming a government supplier

- Register as a supplier
 - In order to sell goods or services to the government, your business needs to be registered as a supplier
 - Registering your business also allows government buyers to identify potential suppliers
- Find a suitable opportunity
 - In order to find tender opportunities, search the Government Electronic Tendering Service (GETS) via CanadaBuys
- Submit a bid
 - In order to bid on tender opportunities, you must understand the bidding and submission requirements described in solicitation documents (e.g. security, business capacity, experience, submission method)
 - If your bid is not successful, you can access debrief, challenge and recourse options that are available to ensure a transparent process

Finding a suitable opportunity

Search online for tenders.

Low dollar value procurement

- Purchases below $25,000 for goods, $40,000 for services and construction, including all applicable taxes, are considered to be low dollar value procurements
- Unlike larger purchases that are done through the solicitation of bids and quotes from potential suppliers using a tendering process, low dollar value procurements are often direct purchases from vendors
- Low dollar value procurement can present an opportunity to grow your business by developing a business relationship with the Government of Canada through smaller contracts.
- Learn more about low dollar value opportunities

Competitive procurement

- Procurement over $25,000 for goods, $40,000 for services and construction is done through the solicitation of bids and quotes from potential suppliers using a variety of methods
- The most common types are:
 - Request for Proposal (RFP)
 - Request for Standing Offer (RFSO)
 - Request for Supply Arrangement (RFSA)
- The tender notice will indicate the method of procurement being used and will outline the solicitation documents
- For more information, visit How procurement works.

Standing Offers

- Standing Offers are used to meet recurring needs when departments or agencies are repeatedly ordering the same goods or services
- A Request for Standing Offer (RFSO) is used to solicit standing offers. Suppliers who meet the evaluation criteria stated in the RFSO become pre-qualified suppliers and holders of standing offers
- A Standing Offer is an offer from a potential supplier to provide goods and/or services at pre-arranged prices, under set terms and conditions, when and if required
- It is not a contract until the government issues a “call-up” against the standing offer. The government is under no actual obligation to purchase until that time

Supply Arrangements

- Supply Arrangements are used when goods or services are bought on a regular basis but when a standing offer is not suitable because of variables in the resulting call-ups

- A Request for Supply Arrangement (RFSA) is used to solicit supply arrangements. Suppliers who meet the evaluation criteria stated in the RFSA become pre-qualified suppliers and holders of supply arrangements
 - Like standing offers, it is not a contract and neither party is legally bound as a result of signing a supply arrangement alone
 - They allow client departments to solicit bids from a pool of pre-qualified suppliers for specific requirements (This differs from standing offers that only allow client departments to accept a portion of a requirement already defined and priced)
