To whom it may concern,

One of the actions taken by the Harper government that was most egregious to me was the removal of federal protection from the vast majority of our bodies of water. I want to see those protections fully restored, and further bolstered by our present government.

There is a lot of work ahead in undoing the damage that was done to our country by the previous administration, but this is at the top of the list for me, as a Canadian and a voter.

Many people think that there is no difference between the main parties in our Parliament, and they use that as an excuse to not bother voting. I know that there is a difference, in policy and in governance, and this is a perfect opportunity for the Liberal Government to demonstrate that.

Thank you,

Michael Emmet
